

week_9\week9\src\main\java\week9\Position.java

```
1 package week9;
2
3 import java.util.Arrays;
4
5 /
6  * Represents a position on the game board.
7  */
8 public class Position {
9     private int[] coordinates;
10    /
11     * Constructor for Position class.
12     * @param coords
13     */
14    public Position(int... coords) {
15        this.coordinates = coords;
16    }
17
18    /
19     * Returns the coordinate value for a specific dimension.
20     * @param dimension
21     * @return
22     */
23    public int getCoordinate(int dimension) {
24        return coordinates[dimension];
25    }
26
27    /
28     * Returns the coordinates of the position.
29     * @return
30     */
31    public int[] getCoordinates() {
32        return coordinates;
33    }
34
35    /
36     * Returns the row index of the position (for 2D board).
37     * @return
38     */
39    public int getRow() {
40        return coordinates[0];
41    }
42
43    /
44     * Returns the column index of the position (for 2D board).
45     * @return
46     */
47    public int getCol() {
48        return coordinates[1];
49    }
50
51    /
```

```
52     * Returns the number of dimensions of the position.
53     * @return
54     */
55     public int getDimensions() {
56         return coordinates.length;
57     }
58
59     /
60     * Returns a string representation of the position.
61     * @return
62     */
63     @Override
64     public String toString() {
65         return "Position" + Arrays.toString(coordinates);
66     }
67 }
68
```